22 September 2016

Minister of Communications Ms Faith Muthambi will address the annual general conference of the United African Apostolic Church this coming Sunday, the 25th of September 2016, at the church's headquarters in Nzhelele.

The United African Apostolic Church has more than two million congregants spread across the Southern African Development Community (SADC) region. The visit by the Minister comes as South Africa celebrates Heritage month.

“As we celebrate Heritage month it is important to reconnect with the institutions that are important in shaping our being - the church is one of them. This visit is to pay tribute to the church and its members, many of whom have build a firm foundation for stable and coherent communities.

We know that religion, as well as our cultural norms and values, underpin the character and nature of a society. Religion and culture are integral aspects of our daily lives; and are important anchors that mould the shape and form of our societies,” said Muthambi.
