TERMS OF REFERENCE

FOR PRDP 94/2022/23 – APPOINTMENT OF A SERVICE PROVIDER TO DEVELOP LIMPOPO RENEWABLE ENERGY STRATEGY AND ACTION PLAN

1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this Terms of Reference (TOR) is to outline the requirements, scope of work and expected outputs for the development of Limpopo Renewable Energy Strategy and action plan.

2. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

2.1 Energy is the crux of economic growth and development. The socio-economic growth, development and improved living standards of nations worldwide are directly linked to the increase in the use of energy. Affordable, reliable and sustainable energy is the life-blood of the economy. The energy sector is undergoing a major transition both globally and nationally as renewable energy takes centre stage year-on-year. There have been substantial developments and transformation in the energy landscape across the world in general, and much of the energy policy shift in South Africa in particular. The electricity supply landscape is increasingly becoming decentralized and competitive. The legal and regulatory framework for sustainable energy has improved significantly, which seek to create an enabling environment for the renewable energy and energy efficiency.

2.2 The energy sector lies at the heart of South Africa's economy and society. Over 80% of South Africa's energy is derived from fossil fuel. The Integrated Resource Plan (IRP) was published in 2019, making reference to various electricity generation technologies that may provide energy for South Africa up to 2030. The Amendment of Electricity Regulations on New Generation Capacity, 2011 issued in terms of section 35(4) of the Electricity Regulation Act, 2006 (Act No. 4 of 2006) and published on 16 October 2020, allows municipalities as organ of state, to apply to the Minister of Mineral Resources and Energy to procure or buy power from the Independent Power Producers (IPPs). The decentralised energy generation and supply option is becoming more competitive than the traditional monopoly. The move away from centralized grid supply is a significant step to sustainable energy. As such, licensed municipal distributors are well positioned to drive a sustainable local energy transition and are key enablers for the decentralization of energy generation. Thus, provincial and local spheres of government have significant role in supporting, coordinating and facilitating the introduction of renewable energy.

2.3 Renewable energy is becoming increasingly more feasible than fossil fuels which have dominated the world's energy landscape for nearly a century. The benefits of renewable energy are numerous and include lower energy costs (for countries, corporates, and households), increased grid reliability, reduced environmental and climate impacts, improved air quality and public health, and more jobs and economic growth.

2.4 South Africa's population as of Mid-2022 is 60.6 million. The country has installed capacity to produce approximately 46,000 MW of electricity, and at peak times about 32,000 MW of electricity is used. However, only 60% of this installed capacity is available at any given time due to some units going through planned maintenance and others having unplanned outages. Limpopo is one of the nine provinces of South Africa, and its population is dispersed across five districts, namely: Capricorn, Mopani, Sekhukhune, Vhembe, and Waterberg. Its population is 6.1 million (10% of the country's population). 93% of the province's population have access to electricity. An average of 9.7% of RSA electricity generated is consumed in Limpopo Province.

2.5 A significant amount of work has already taken place that provincial government needs to build on. To date, the Government's renewable energy framework programme has guided work to decarbonise the energy sector and prepare it for a more renewable future. The first Emissions Reduction Plan (ERP) released in May 2022 set out a broad range of actions to reduce energy and industry emissions. One of these actions is the development of an energy strategy by December 2024. The development of a strategy provides a real opportunity to ensure that steps to decarbonise are coordinated and considered across the whole energy system. The provincial Renewable Energy Strategy (the Strategy) will help set pathways to achieve our objectives and provide certainty for the sector, consumers, and industry.

It will set the direction for Limpopo's pathway away from fossil fuels and towards greater levels of renewable electricity and other low emissions alternatives.

The bidder must implement the following requirements as part of the terms of reference:

8.4.1 PROBLEM STATEMENT

8.4.1.1 Electricity generation capacity shortage

South Africa has a challenge of generation capacity shortage that is resulting in load shedding. Load shedding is the single biggest constraint on South Africa's economic growth. Power cuts is costing an economy up to R1 billion a day. Load shedding is causing severe impact on municipal services, equipment, infrastructure, and finances. For example, Cities have reported that they incur a loss of income due to unserved energy during load shedding, the overall average direct loss range between R3 to R6 million per stage load shedding per day.

The cost and loss to municipalities due to load shedding is substantially high and growing every day as this problem persists. It has become unsustainable and unaffordable. Consequently, the licensed municipal distributors in Limpopo that owe Eskom for electricity bulk supply an amount more than R1.4 billion will most likely get worse. Municipalities have an opportunity to reduce dependency of Eskom thereby purchasing power from IPPs and excess power from customers that have installed embedded generation, generate its own power.

8.4.1.2 Dependency on fossil fuels and climate change commitments

South Africa electricity is characterized by high dependency on fossil fuel resources. Over 80% of South Africa's electricity is generated from coal, with most of the power stations concentrated in Mpumalanga province. There are two coal-fired power plants in Limpopo province: the Matimba Power Station, completed in 1990 with a capacity of 3,990 megawatts (MW), and the Medupi Power Station, which is part of Eskom's New Build Programme, and will have a capacity of 4,800 MW on completion. Energy generated from these power plants is fed into the national grid. The province relies on the national electricity grid for its electricity supply.

Most of the coal-fired power stations are reaching the end of their lifespan. This results in many breakdowns of generating units in power stations and hence unplanned maintenance, which is resulting in insufficient capacity and load shedding. In addition, South Africa is severely impacted by climate variability. Different parts of the country experience severe droughts, floods, excessive heat and other extreme weather patterns. It is evident that the frequency and intensity of such extreme weather events are increasing because of climate change. The extreme weather pattern events have already caused massive damage to the infrastructure, ecosystems, lives, and livelihoods. It displaced thousands of people especially poorer communities such as the unemployed, those living in informal settlements that are most vulnerable to climate change. South Africa's commitment to tackling climate change is long-standing and unwavering. Climate change exacerbates South Africa's triple challenges of poverty, unemployment, and inequality. Tackling climate change requires urgent, significant and transformational changes across all sectors of the South African economy, notably energy sector being one of them.

At the national and provincial levels in South Africa there is an increasing focus on diversifying the electricity mix away from coal, while simultaneously growing renewable energy options. Renewable energy is being generated and utilized in Limpopo. As of June 2017, there were three commercial solar PV projects in operation in Limpopo (the Soutpan, Witkop, and Tom Burke solar parks) with a combined total capacity of 118 MW (DoE 2018). Furthermore, the province was estimated to have 17.57 MW of small-scale embedded solar PV installed across the commercial and industrial, residential, and agricultural sectors.

8.4.1.3 Role of province in renewable energy

Provinces, according to South African legislation, do not have a constitutional role or mandate for energy services. Nonetheless, provinces do have a role to play in promoting economic development through sustainable energy investment and rollout, creating a conducive regulatory environment for renewable energy generation either by municipalities or IPPs, supporting speedy processes in renewable energy projects through authorisation processes, supporting and coordinating identified local government renewable energy initiatives through development of the provincial renewable energy strategy, and promoting local participation in the renewable energy value chain, including local content manufacture.

Thus, Limpopo Office of the Premier (OTP) intends to appoint a service provider that will develop a renewable energy strategy and action plan to contribute in the provision of sustainable and uninterrupted electricity supply in the province, to respond to the current energy transition and electricity challenges that the country is facing. Moreover, the strategy and roadmap would need to elaborate how the municipalities in the province can procure power from the IPPs, strengthen the local economic development, diversify energy resources and decentralize the energy system in the province.

8.4.2 PROJECT MOTIVATION

- i. Energy is central to sustainable development. It affects all aspects of development – social, economic, environmental and even cultural. The energy sector is very strategic to the sustainable economic growth and development of the province. In addition to this macroeconomic importance, it also has major roles to play in reducing poverty, creation of sustainable jobs, improving productivity and enhancing the general quality of lives of society.
- ii. The energy system and other sectors of the economy are interlinked in some ways. While in one hand, the energy sector contributes to a sustainable growth of the economy and the realisation of socio-political objectives; on the other hand, the transformation of energy supply system, to meet future energy demand requires a large amount of resources. South Africa is an energy- and carbon-intensive economy vulnerable to climate change and underprepared for a low-carbon transition. The energy sector contributes around 80% of total greenhouse gas emissions, 50% of which are from electricity generation and liquid fuel production alone. The country's carbon intensity is 599 t of CO<sub>2</sub> per million dollars of GDP, more than double the global average of 286 t of CO<sub>2</sub> per million dollars. This over dependence on fossil fuel-based energy as the main driver of economic development is severely damaging the environment. Another challenge with fossil fuel-based energy generation is that the practice releases large quantities of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere causing climate change. Climate change is a significant threat to ecosystems and human populations.
- iii. These challenges have forced government to rethink the dominant role of fossil fuels as a driver of modern industrialisation. There is now consensus for alternative driver of future industrialisation and renewable energy sources have emerged as most favoured prospective driver. Renewable energy alternatives are widely available and may be explored to meet part of the demand. In addition, improving the energy efficiency of existing applications is a cost-effective way to help meet the demand without significant increase in energy production.

- iv. South Africa has initiated a transition to a more sustainable development pathway which notably involves a move towards a low carbon economy. While the Just Transition agenda has an economy- and society-wide relevance, discussions in South Africa (and globally) have primarily focused on the coal value chain, particularly coal-fired power generation and associated coal mining. The country's just energy transition focuses on the transition of the energy sector while navigating the shift away from coal towards cleaner sources of energy to ensure that the lives and communities that are tied to high-emitting energy industries are not negatively impacted in the shift towards a low emissions economy. Just Energy Transition is a strong driver for new jobs, better jobs, social justice, and poverty eradication.
- v. Limpopo is endowed with abundant renewable energy resources, the significant one being solar energy, biomass, hydropower, geothermal, as well as potential for hydrogen fuel. The province is therefore well positioned to pursue alternative or sustainable energy sources to ensure energy security for future generations. It is against this backdrop that the Limpopo provincial administration seeks to undertake a project to develop a provincial renewable energy strategy.

8.4.3 SCOPE OF WORK

8.4.3.3 Project Outputs

The performance measures for the development of a Provincial Renewable Energy Strategy will be closely monitored by Office of the Premier and the Provincial Renewable Energy Task Team. The Service provider's performance will be measured through the following outputs:

8.4.3.3.1 Output A: Inception report

The appointed service provider will carry out all the work required to develop the project process plan for the development of the Provincial Renewable Energy Strategy. This report must give a clear plan/programme for the project. Inception document describing the methodology and outline a draft table of contents for the final provincial strategy. The inception report must also provide details of all stakeholders/role players participants that shall be consulted for execution of the he project. This process plan/inception report should therefore, inter alia, include:

- i. A detailed description of how the appointed service provider intends to conduct the development of the provincial renewable energy strategy;
- ii. An elaborate, coherently structured and articulated approach to how the project will be undertaken, addressing each of the project deliverables and outputs;
- iii. How the strategy will be developed/compiled in accordance with objectives;
- iv. Project communication, background information document, appropriate announcement, advertisements, media releases, information material of process for stakeholder involvement will be developed, comprehensive stakeholder database will be developed and an initial stakeholder workshop will be conducted;

8.4.3.3.2 Output B: Stakeholder Assessment Report and Engagement Plan

- i) Stakeholder engagement is critical for the successful development and implementation of the provincial renewable energy strategy. This will be ongoing throughout the duration of the project to ensure stakeholders comments are incorporated and addressed.
- ii) The appointed service provider will conduct a stakeholder mapping exercise (identification of key actors including public, private and civil society representatives).
- iii) This process will also inform the identification of participants for consultation workshops. It is also necessary in identifying the key people/agencies/companies and general members of the public that are key players in the renewable energy space or have capacity to invoke management strategies, or have an interest in supporting the implementation plan. This collective of stakeholders will take part in identifying the short-term and long-term goals of the strategy.
- iv) The stakeholder mapping and analysis exercise is therefore necessary to:
  - Identify key stakeholders and partners in different sectors such as finance, agriculture, forestry, industry, energy, water, environment, transport, etc., both governmental and non-governmental, including community leaders, academic and technical experts, and the private sector.
  - Prepare stakeholder engagement plan for review and approval by the Project Steering Committee. Wherever possible, existing committees and frameworks should be used to avoid the duplication of efforts and workloads. Participation in the process should include the broad range of key decision makers at national, provincial and local levels and from different sectors. This will help to ensure coherence and consistency of the policies that underpin the response strategy, as well as support its implementation.
  - Carry out consultations with the public and private sectors and non-governmental organisations, Project Steering Committee and key stakeholders to identify provincial priorities for addressing climate change;
  - Hold focus group discussions separately with key vulnerable groups (including women and youth) on their main activities, vulnerabilities to climate change, coping mechanisms, roles and responsibilities during times of disasters and derive policy measures to accommodate the different needs and roles of vulnerable groups with the aim of building resilience and awareness of climate change, adaptation and mitigation;

- Define Strategic Partnerships with national bodies, provincial authorities, local authorities, Private sector, NGOs and civil society.
- Facilitate stakeholder engagement activities in order to create a shared understanding of the key players who can contribute to the provincial renewable energy strategy development and implementation success,
- Provide a foundation for stakeholder communication and engagement strategy,
- Identify potential risks from negative stakeholders or those who feel they are not being heard, and
- Prioritize stakeholders so the appropriate amount of resources can be assigned and the right engagement strategy is applied.

8.4.3.3.3 Output C: Baseline Assessment Report (status quo report)

- Provide an analytical background on energy landscape in the province, i.e. the energy mix, and who has access to what type of energy and in which locations, and analyse current government's renewable energy plans and programmes, including any incentive schemes for increased uptake of renewable energy solutions;
- Assess the socio-economic and environmental opportunities and challenges for increased investment in and use of renewable energy in the province;
- Investigate and assess the implications and impact of South Africa's energy crisis in local economy in the municipalities, business and livelihood in the province;
- The barriers, gaps and opportunities that have been assessed in the study have further been presented in a SWOT form to better inform development of the strategic interventions and actions;
- Analyse, assess the potential of industrialization of the renewable energy value chain and local content taking into account the existing SEZ in the province;
- Carry out interviews with relevant stakeholders (including private sector players) to investigate the causes of current uptake levels for renewable energy;
- Benchmark local efforts against national and international best practice, assess and recommend financing options including incentives;
- Present the preliminary findings, seek further inputs and formulate recommendations and incentives that will promote the uptake of renewable energy at a stakeholder engagement workshop;
- Prepare a report of the findings and the recommendations on measures to promote uptake of renewable energy by key players (including policy/legislative reforms).

8.4.3.3.4 Output D: Energy Needs Assessment and Intervention Strategy

The appointed service provider will undertake a full energy demand and supply projections/ targets for the province based on provincial and national governments vision for development by 2030. Through a participatory process, a vision, mission, and strategic objectives leading to the achievement of the vision will be formulated. The strategic interventions derived from the SWOT analysis will be developed.

Based on the baseline assessment, capacity assessment, gap and problems analysis, needs assessment, the vision, mission statement and supporting provincial renewable energy goals will be developed. The service provider will be required to conduct stakeholder engagement workshops, to develop a strategy that will inform the development of the provincial renewable energy intervention strategies.

8.4.3.3.5 Output E: Provincial Norms and Standards

The appointed service provider will also be expected to develop provincial norms and standards that will guide renewable energy initiatives in the Province.

8.4.3.3.6 Output F: Implementation Action Plan and Monitoring and Evaluation Framework

Once the intervention strategies are identified, they will be expanded into action plans which outline the methodology to implement the specific interventions. The implementation Plan must provide guiding principles and institutional framework for implementing the provincial renewable energy strategy, resource mobilization and an indicative budget for implementing the strategy, and a monitoring and evaluation (M&E) framework for the strategy and action plan. The implementation plan will also provide activities to be undertaken for each Action plan, implementation roles, time frames and key performance indicators (KPI) that will track if the action plans are meeting intended objectives. The objective is to:

- i. Implement the identified strategies, including financing the control measures and setting a time frame.
- ii. Identify how to implement intervention strategies/ actions.
- iii. Enforce the policies and regulations needed to implement the strategies.

Rules for implementation can include:

- i. the sequence of events, including priorities, time schedules and deadlines,

- ii. time period the intervention will operate before assessment on its effectiveness, and
- iii. roles and responsibilities for achievement of the intervention strategies.

It is also important to monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of the emission reduction strategies on each of the priority pollutants to determine whether the goals are being achieved and the benefits realised. This essentially takes place annually after the implementation of the strategy. The service provider will be required compile the monitoring and evaluation framework, guideline or template on how the province should conduct monitoring and evaluation for the provincial renewable strategy. Appropriate indicators must be developed to monitor progress towards achieving set goals or targets.

The monitoring and evaluation framework will assist role players in keeping track of the activities that are scheduled for implementation periodically and should include:

- An institutional framework for monitoring and evaluation;
- Performance indicator to measure the achievement of the objective;
- Periodicity of review;
- Process for review of the plan of implementation; and
- The mechanism for collating and reporting results from project-specific implementation and impact monitoring.
